City frustrated in annexation

BELLE GLADE - The Belle Glade City Commissioners Monday, July 23, frustrated for seven months in their efforts to annex two plots of land from the county, asked City Attorney John E. Baker to seek "political, legal and procedural alternatives" to the provisions of the county Comprehensive Plan which are thwarting their efforts.

The city is seeking to annex two pieces of property to the east and south east of Glades General which Seminole Sugar Corporation wants to develop into residential and industrial areas, according to Homer M. Harvin, city planning director.

The land is currently zoned agricultural by the county. Seminole Sugar supposedly wants to have the property annexed into the city and rezoned residential and industrial so it can develop it.

However, a Florida statute permits the county to prevent the city from rezoning the property to a different population density for two years after annexation.

This discourages developers who are usually "ready to go right now," Harvin said.

Mayor Thomas L. Altman suggested the city attempt to win the approval of the county commission for the petition to annex. The petition would include the zoning plans for the property, and if approved, the county would waive its right to control development on the property for the two years following annexation.

Commissioner William Greer objected to that alternative, saying it may be construed as a defeat of the local interest.

School busing cutback will be protested

BELLE GLADE - A petition a 15-year old student intends to submit to the county school superintendent protesting the elimination of a bus route will not prevent that route from being eliminated, according to Superintendent Thomas Mills.

"It's state law and we can't get reimbursed for it," said Mills.

According to Mills, Palm Beach County School District officials decided to eliminate the route when they discovered last Spring that about 300 students in that area were riding the bus illegally.

State law mandates that bus service be provided only for students living two miles or more from the school.

The school district will not be reimbursed for providing transportation to any students residing within the two mile radius, according to Mills, unless they live in areas too hazardous to walk to and from school.

He said the district discovered the illegal bus passengers when a parent complained about the location of a bus stop. Upon investigation, it was discovered that the bus stop was two blocks from the school.

Further investigation revealed that many students in the Gladeview Elementary School and Glades Plaza area were illegally using the bus.

A 15-year old student, Isaac Pierce of 612 SW 12th Street, said he is circulating a petition and has already collected almost 200 signatures of students and townswomen residents of the area.

He said he intends to present the petition to Mills about two weeks before school is scheduled to begin.

"The county wants to cut out our buses," he said. "We don't think it's fair."

Mills said the petition, if it is presented to him, will have no bearing on the elimination of the bus route.

"No, we operate by state law. We don't get any funds for student who live less than two miles from school," said Mills.

Officer reinstatement request considered

By JEFF BROWN

BELLE GLADE - The Belle Glade City Commission is studying a request for reinstatement of time by a veteran police officer who left the Belle Glade Police Department for about six years between 1963 and 1969.

Lieutenant George W. Farnall asked the city commission Monday night, July 23, to reinstate six years, nine months and eight days of employment with the department toward his retirement.

Farnall had joined the department October 5, 1965, but left it July 13, 1963 because "there was no retirement plan in effect."

He joined the department again May 19, 1969 after the six year absence.

A retirement plan had been established April 1964.

Post Office move a success

BELLE GLADE - The new Belle Glade post office opened Monday morning after a quick, weekend move, with few problems, according to Postmaster Don Sivyer.

"The move went very well, I thought," said Sivyer.

Local United States Postal Service employees and maintenance employees from the West Palm Beach office were assisted by a moving service from West Palm Beach in the Saturday and Sunday move.

The local employees used Sunday to put things in order, according to Sivyer.

Minor problems included placing lock boxes in the wrong slots, he said. Some confusion resulted among customers who couldn't find their box numbers Monday.

"Everybody co-operated," said Sivyer. "There'll be a little bit more inconvenience up here than we had at the other place because our Resort possible for Pahokee Harbor?

By JEFF BROWN

PAHOKEE - The Pahokee City Council will meet in an adjourned session tonight with a woman from Fort Lauderdale who has proposed, through a representative, that the city lease her the Pahokee Harbor area so she can build and operate a resort there.

Rob Tiller, representing the Fort Lauderdale woman, told the council his client wants to build a resort at the Pahokee Harbor site which would include a hotel, two restaurants, a marina and a new tower modeled after a lighthouse.

"We're talking about an almost five million dollar project," said Tiller.

"I love the way it sounds," said Council Chairman Jon Mock.

According to Tiller, his client, Sylvia Shultz, is the daughter of a deceased Fort Lauderdale man who had visions of building marina facilities on the Atlantic Ocean, the intercoastal waterway, the gulf coast and the shore of Lake Okechobee.

When he died, he had accomplished all but the marina on the lake, according to Tiller, so his daughter decided to build it.

"We'll completely do the marina top to bottom," said Tiller.

Tiller said his client is also interested in using any state operated land as part of the project. He said he understood that the state was willing to turn the lands over to the city in the past, but the city could not afford to take it over and operate it.

City frees funds for country club use

BELLE GLADE — Citing a "dreadful summer" which allowed business at the Belle Glade Country Club to a virtual stand still, the Belle Glade City Commission Monday night, July 26, freed a $5,000 deposit on the city owned facility for use by the current operators until business improves.

"The summer has been dreadful," said Mayor Thomas L. Altman when he made the proposal. "It has taken its toll on the new operators. I'd like to see us help them in this fashion."

The current operators, Elden Corporation out of Lake Worth, have operated the club since May after winning the bid for the facility.

The $5,000 deposit will be coupled with outside financial aid to help the club through the months till October when business usually picks up in the Glades area, according to Altman.

In other business, the city commission:

- Voted to purchase a one and a half ton asphalt roller from Growers Ford Tractor Co. of Miami for $3,100. DeWind Machinery Co. out of Fort Lauderdale bid $4,332 and H.F. Mason Equipment Corporation of Hialeah bid $6,184.

- Reappointed Ray Behm to the Civil Service Board.

- Granted permission for United States Sugar Corporation to use the city owned sewer camera at a site where the company has infiltration problems.

- Instructed City Attorney John E. Baker to draw a memorandum giving the Palm Beach County Solid Authority the bill of sale for two bulldozers it purchased from the city. The authority wants to trade one of the bulldozers for a newer model.

As part of the agreement to give the Authority the bill of sale for the bulldozers, which are not paid for yet, the attorney was instructed to include the provision that any late payments can be subtracted from city tipping fees at the transfer and asked Public Works Director Richard Mount to determine how much it would cost to have the tennis courts resurfaced.

One woman in the audience told the council that the biggest problem at the tennis courts involved the high grass and malden cane surrounding them.

Gary McIntire, the baseball coach at Pahokee High School, said he felt the parks were not in bad condition but were left unmaintained and could be "easily repaired."

He said the city seems to be letting the parks go to complete ruin.

"It is deplorable," said Dush, who added that the city maintenance crew was short staffed. She recommended the public works department hire some temporary help to get the parks back into shape.

Dush also said McIntire had offered to re-start a little league program in Pahokee if the parks were insured.

"I can tell you that the only way to build an effective program at the high school is to start working when they (the players) are about nine years old," said McIntire.

In other business, the council:

- Approved a four week extension for the summer youth program at the high school. The program, scheduled to end July 29 originally, was extended to August 20.
- Voted to allow the Building Inspector to clean up a property-owner's lot and place a lien on the property for the cost.

According to Building Inspector Phelix Slosser, the property owner had been issued a violation notice and given 30 days to clean the property. That time limit had expired, according to Slosser.

- Decided to review the city ordinance relating to security trailers.

"It's overly strict in some areas and it seems inequitable in others," said City Attorney Michael Shalvick.

- Approved the Phase I plat for a development proposed by Ralph Johnson.
- Asked their insurance advisor to review a voluntary pay-roll retirement plan and make a recommendation to the council.

business lobby is a little smaller here than at the old place. But we'll try to operate with as little inconvenience to the customers as possible.

"We did more business here (Monday) than we have in the last three months on a Monday," said Sylvester, adding that that's an indication of the customers' curiosity about the new post office site.

Work isn't complete on the new site, according to Sylvester. Plans are being drawn at the district office in Tampa to improve the front porch and service lobby sections of the building, located at 1340 NW Avenue L.

"They'll probably put some offices in the back," he said.

After the plans are made, the postal service will solicit bids and award the contract to the lowest bidder.

Annexation —

All four commissioners at the meeting, Altman, Grear, Claude Tindall and Charles Goodlett, expressed displeasure with the concept of the county holding control for two years after annexation over the development of property.

"I think that is wrong," said Altman. "It's a crying shame that a development that I feel, and I'm sure the rest of the guys feel would be beneficial to the city, has been roadblocked."

Harvin told the commission that Stan Redick, planning director with the county, was willing to attend the next city commission meeting to discuss proposed language changes in the county Comprehensive Plan which would allow the county commission to make recommendations in direct opposition to the plan.

The commissioners chose not to schedule a meeting with Redick.

"I don't know that a shouting match would be constructive," said Altman.

"Sometimes it can be very persuasive," said Grear.

Altman's suggestion to seek approval for the petition by the county commission brought objections from Grear who argued that it would look like the city was beaten in its determination to fight the concept of county control of city annexed lands.

Altman argued that approval would remove the "one legitimate complaint" the county has on the issue.

"Agreed," said Grear. "But as soon as we agree to this, they'll come at us with something else."

The city will be seeking ways to expedite the annexation in this matter, Altman said, while continuing to "explore and fight" the concept.

"I'm glad you said 'fight'," said Grear. "Cause I'm willing to fight all the way on this."

Baker told the commissioners that in his opinion, the county is not concerned with density, but with extending authority not granted it in the Florida statute being cited by the county in the issues.

He said he is sure the county is overreaching the authority given it in the statute.

Mock elected president of Rotary

BUBBA MOCK

BELLE GLADE — Rupert "Bubba" Mock, Jr., has been elected president of the Belle Glade Rotary Club.

Active in local civic and volunteer efforts, Mock has been a member of the local Rotary Club since 1975 and has served in several club offices prior to his installation as president of the club.

He recently attended the International Convention of Rotary at Dallas, Texas, where about 15,000 Rotarians were challenged to do their part to promote "world understanding and peace through Rotary."

Mock is currently serving as chairman of the 1983 Belle Glade Black Gold Jubilee committee, an all-volunteer steering committee responsible for the annual Black Gold Jubilee celebration at Belle Glade in the Spring.

He is a former president of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Canal Hazards Safety committee and Goodwill Industries steering committee.

Mock is currently serving as vice president of the Gulfstream Chapter of the Bank Administrative Institute, is a member of the Belle Glade chapter of the Athrills Foundation and is a trustee of St. Peter's Lutheran Church and school.

Mock is vice president and director of the Bank of Pahokee and is the manager of the Belle Glade office of the locally owned bank.

He and his wife, Paula, are the parents of three daughters, Neena, 15, Lisa, 12 and Erica, 7, and are residents of Belle Glade.

Rotary International is represented in 157 countries around the world with more than 800,000 members in 19,626 clubs. Virtually every community in the United States has a Rotary Club whose membership is made up of local business, civic and professional leaders.

The Belle Glade Rotary Club contributes to charitable and volunteer service groups and organizations donating both funds and manpower.

Southern Bell computerizes billing

Southern Bell is now using an improved computerized system to reduce customers waiting time when they call the Business Office for billing information.

Southern Bell Local Manager, Bob White, said that customers will no longer have to wait for Service Representatives in Bell's Business Offices to search manually to find the current billing data. When billing information is entered in the computer, those data are available to all of the Service Representatives in the Business Office via the video display units.

Payments are now posted within two business days instead of the five days formerly required," says White, adding that service adjustments will be made automatically when the customer calls the office rather than manually afterwards.

This new system provides Service Representatives access to customer records through a computer terminal that has a TV-like screen and a keyboard similar to that of a typewriter. When a customer calls to ask about his bill, the Service Representative enters key data in the telephone number and current billing information is instantly displayed on a video display screen.

Also, payments made at company locations appear on a billing record in the Business Office within minutes.

Farnall told the commission he was seeking reinstatement of the time for retirement only, not seniority and grade.

He said the rule was changed from one year to five years for reinstatement of seniority and grade, and his five year, ten month absence didn't meet the requirements of that rule.

The city commissioners voted to postpone action on the matter until they had time to examine circumstances surrounding previous, similar requests.

Commissioner William Grear said he needed time to study past requests and their backgrounds to make a "fair decision."

City Finance Director Frank C. Anderson said only one other request was ever successful. In that case, the employee had left the city for eight or nine months, he said.

He said the insurance company which underwrites the retirement plan doesn't have a policy concerning Farnall's request, and it would defer to the city commission's interpretation.

If the commissioners agree to the reinstatement, it would cost the retirement fund about $55,000 according to Anderson.

"One reason for the pension plan is to encourage continuous service with the city," said Mayor Thomas L. Altman, explaining why he voted against Farnall's request when it was originally made in September 1981. "I feel the same way now as I did in September."

Farnall said when he started work for the department in 1956, the city charter stated that the city would provide a retirement plan, but none existed.

"I didn't kick up a fuss," said Farnall. "I realized that there are rough times to get through."

He told the commission he left to take a job where he could join a retirement plan.

"Had the pension plan been in effect, I'd have been here the whole time, probably," he said.

Farnall, who is Lieutenant of Identification with the department, completed 13 years of continuous service with the police department in May.

City makes funds available for CD use as insurance against HUD redefinitions

BELLE GLADE - The Belle Glade City Commission Monday, July 26, made $5,000 available to the Community Development project as insurance against any redefinitions the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development may make in its audit of this year's budget.

Remar Harvin, Community Development Director, told the commission that HUD may redefine several line items in the budget as general administration, although he believes that redefinition would not hold up.

The redefinition could put the HUD share of the general administration budget over the ceiling of 30 percent, in which case the city would have to refund that portion of the money over the limit, according to Harvin.

The $5,000 freed by the commission in the form of a loan will enable Community Development to pay for the rehabilitation services which may be redefined in next year's audit out of city funds, if necessary.

The action, carried unanimously by the four commissioners present, enabled Harvin to take his original proposal back to the drawing board for reworking.

He originally proposed that two positions be temporarily laid off until October 1, 1982: a maintenance man paid totally out of Community Development funds and the Housing Inspector, paid 50 percent out of project funds.

In addition, he was going to reduce all other Community Development positions to four day work weeks.

Harvin said he is now working on a new proposal.

"When we get competent people who are doing good jobs, we hate to lose them," said Commissioner William Greer, adding that reducing the work week by 20 percent would increase the likelihood of that happening.

Two factors had prompted Harvin to make his recommendations to the commission on the matter: the possible redefinitions by HUD and a possible cost overrun of about $7,000 on the SW Avenue F project.

The cost overrun had earlier been resolved when the contractor agreed to reduce the cost, according to a letter to City Manager Rolfe Wagner from Harvin. But two weeks ago a statement was submitted which did not reflect the elimination of the overrun costs, according to Harvin.

That matter is under study by the city's consulting engineer. If the cost overrun issue is resolved in favor of the contractor, the program would be "short of necessary funds."

"If one of these issues is resolved unfavorably for the city, we would be short the funds needed to keep staff on board," Harvin told the commissioners.

Mayor Thomas L. Altman, expressing displeasure with the idea of reducing employees' work week, proposed the city free the $5,000 for Community Development use.

"Even if the loan is never repaid, it will still be good for the city," said Altman.

Harvin said he believes both issues will be resolved in the city's favor, but thinks the loan is necessary in case one or both of the problems are solved unfavorably to the city.

"It may be dodging shadows. But it (definitions) changes sometimes. Last year, they (HUD) redefined old and new construction," said Harvin.

"I don't mind following anyone's rules, but they shouldn't be changing the rules."

Perspective

Bus route should be eliminated

Busing is a very emotional issue. Many of those who have recently expressed feelings about busing have been against it.

There is one exception, locally. Parents and students in the southwest section of Belle Glade are up in arms over the Palm Beach County School District's decision last Spring to eliminate a school bus route which illegally carried about 300 students to Glades Central High School.

The district decided to eliminate the route when they discovered it, because state law mandates that unless the area is too hazardous to walk to and from school, students living within a two mile radius of their school will not be provided bus service.

The state will not reimburse the district for students bused within that two mile radius unless the area is hazardous.

The students and parents are crying "Unfair!"

We ask "Why?"

The law doesn't seem unfair in this case. Two miles isn't too great a distance for 15-, 16-, 17-, and 18-year olds to walk twice a day. When people start complaining about that sort of a walk, we believe they are getting too soft and expect others, be it the government or the school board or other people, to do too much for them.

The area is not full of hazardous roadways and treacherous walkways. Merely obeying traffic signals and common sense could suffice to bring any high school age student to his or her destination.

Unless the residents concerned with the elimination of the bus route can prove reason for an exception to the law, and we don't think they can, we think the school district has every reason to eliminate the route and commend them for doing so.

This is one area of government waste which can and should be cut.

County over steps bounds

The governments of Palm Beach County and the city of Belle Glade have found themselves at opposite ends of a dispute, and we think the city is right.

It seems the city is attempting to annex some property into its city limits. This usually is a routine matter when the owner of the property, in this case Seminole Sugar, asks for the annexation, which it has.

But the problem lies somewhere in the zoning and population density of the land to be annexed.

The county claims that state law enables it to prevent the land from being rezoned from a density other than the one it was zoned under the county for two years after annexation.

The city says no way. Once the land is annexed into the city, the city can develop it any way it sees fit.

The land in question is zoned agricultural by the county. The owner of the property wants the city to annex the land and rezone it for residential and industrial, two city zones which carry a different density than the county's agricultural zoning.

The city has charged its attorney and planning director with seeking "political, legal and procedural alternatives" to the county's red tape.

We agree with the city's position in this matter. Once the county gives its control over property to another governmental agency, it gives up all control. To give the county control over the density of the land for two years after annexation into another government's boundaries, discourages developers from beneficial projects and is detrimental to the growth of large and small communities.

We urge the city to continue to fight this matter. It is just one more example of a large government exerting undue control over a smaller one.

GIFT WRAPPED? No, Belle Glade Elementary School on West Canal Street South isn't gift wrapped. It was covered earlier this week for fumigation.

Energy efficiency needs in schools recognized by state

For some time now, Americans have been painfully aware of the energy crisis. A sure reminder is a quick peek at either end of the month gasoline credit card charges or the monthly utility bill. During the 1982 session, the Florida state legislature confronted one area of energy inefficiency: school construction.

According to the Solar Collector, a quarterly publication printed by the Florida Solar Energy Center, Chapter 83-137, Laws of Florida, requires the use of passive design elements and low energy building features in the design and construction of new educational facilities.

Passive design elements are those architectural features which minimize heat gain, loss, and the use of heating and cooling equipment.

Those features include building orientation, landscaping, earth berming, insulation, thermal windows and doors, overhangs, skylights, and thermal chimneys.

The new law applies to all primary and secondary schools, community colleges, and universities within the state's school system.

New schools must be designed so that natural ventilation will permit comfortable use of the facilities when ambient conditions are moderate.

Large group facilities, such as music rooms, gymnasiums, and auxiliary facilities, are exempted from the requirement.

School officials are required to retain existing natural lighting and ventilation when renovating a school system.

New schools which will use more than 1,000 gallons of hot water a day are required to provide at least 65 percent of the supply from solar heating.

As the energy crisis seems no nearer to solution than when it first came to our attention in 1973, new laws such as 83-137 seem to have great merit. The construction of buildings designed to be liveable in our tropical climate makes sense.

Home is so nice

During the past two weeks I jumped ship and caught a glimpse of the outside world. I spent on the ground, worked 36 hours straight, and saw the Navy Wives of Windsor, a play by William Shakespeare.

All of this occurred during my two-weeks summer service with the U.S. Army Reserve at Fort Eustis, Va.

It was a nice change of pace from the newspaper business and its rats in his home again.

I was a bit surprised to read about the deer hunt while in Virginia. The story stirred up quite a bit of interest around the country. I even read where Bill Hampton, a former editor with our company and now a business man with the Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission, was quoted.

"Even hunters have been," the paper quoted him as saying. The next sentence was that they got his name wrong. They called him Bill Hampton.

Rarely, however, did I have an opportunity to read a newspaper or watch television. We stayed too busy.

Our mission was to locate General Sutton, the largest ship in the Army, with cargo at Fort Eustis. The Sutton sailed along the James River and into the Atlantic Ocean where it was met by amphibious craft and landing ships. The cargo was transferred to the landing ships, which deposited it at Fort Eustis, a beach on Virginia Beach. The cargo was then "beached" by truck back to Fort Eustis to complete the exercise.

This exercise, known as Logistics over the shore, is one of the ways the Army would supply and resupply itself during wartime.

Making the training more realistic was the use of gas and opposition forces which the soldiers had to defend themselves in as they carried out their logistics mission.

My earlier reference to "jumping ship" occurred during a visit to the Sutton in the second week.

A large amphibious craft (one which has wheels for traveling cross country but which can also swim like a boat) took us to the Sutton.

The craft pulled up to a landing ship which was lashed to the side of the Sutton. After several tries, the amphibian got close enough for us to leap over. The fellow ahead of me, who happened to be the chaplain, made the jump as the two craft were drawing apart. I figured if he could make it so could I. It was one of the best long jumps of my career, and I never was noted for my long jumping.

Once ahead the landing craft, we climbed a rope ladder up the side of the Sutton.

Later, the chaplain told me he was surprised that I had attempted the jump, especially since the ships were already drawing apart.

It just goes to show how one can do when the adrenalin is flowing.

Concerning my earlier reference to Shakespeare...

On the middle weekend of the past two weeks, I took in a Shakespeare play on the campus of William and Mary College in Williamsburg.

The play was held by the Phi Beta Kappa building, which is interesting to that Phi Beta Kappa was started at William and Mary in the 1700s.

Though I was never a Phi Beta Kappa, I have known a few and all have been very smart people. I should be ashamed to say this, but I'm normally not what you would call a Shakespeare buff. I can think of more exciting ways to spend my time. But it doesn't hurt every now and then to have a little dose of culture.

Speaking of culture, George Steinbrenner springs to mind. Steinbrenner, the owner of the New York Yankees, was a passenger on the same plane that I flew into Tampa on Saturday.

He was carrying a suitcase over one shoulder and looking around, perhaps for his ride.

It was an eventful week, and I'm glad to be home with family and friends once again.

Time of free lunch is over

Editor,

I heard on the radio on July 21, that the Urban Renewal Program was going to spend four to five million dollars for more low income housing in the Glades.

I don't mind giving of my own free will to charity but I do not like being coerced into giving my tax dollars to a group of people who are only productive in as far as they only produce more children to be put on the welfare rolls.

The time is long overdue for the free spending politicians who set around and think up ways to throw away our money, to come up with ways to provide jobs for poor people instead of giving incentives for people to breed generations of Welfare recipients.

We had better think of ways to make taxpayers out of the people who exist by means of Subsidized rent, Food Stamps, welfare checks and free medical care before it is too late.

In communist countries the government provides housing and all the same services for their citizens that some of our big spender politicians want. They call it "our poorer citizens." The problem of Subsidized rent, Food Stamps, welfare checks and free medical

The new Belle Glade Post Office just moved into the by the local carriers and sorters offered more light, more space and air conditioning.

The new office contained 5,500 square feet of floor space compared to 2,850 in the old building but, according to a news story, even the roomier building didn't allow enough space to grow to projected figures.

There were then 18 employees in the local Post Office and a study projected 20 by 1968.

The office also had an increased number of lock boxes, installing 804 boxes rather than the 643 in the old building.

The medical community would become more closely knit, more physicians would be attracted to the area and physicians would have more time for professional activities other than their practices.

Those were the benefits a consultant said would accrue to the Glades with a consolidated hospital to replace the one in Belle Glade and the other in Pahokee.

Tracy Hara, who had been hired by the Southwestern and Northwestern Palm Beach County Hospital Districts to study the consolidation, said in his report a 100-bed hospital with 71 users would employ 190 persons and partially support 23 physicians.

In a related story, the newly formed Taxpayers League for the Southwestern Hospital District asked the hospital board to direct the administrator to cooperate with and give information necessary for the formulation of a report by a consultant and engineer to be hired by the group.

The group said it wished to compile the report to decide which would be the best way to spend taxpayers' money.

Florida National Guardsmen and Army Reservists returning from active duty must be rehired to their old jobs Glades employers were warned. The local guardsmen were due to return home on Aug. 11.

Funds were budgeted to four bridges to be built in the Glades area and Belle Glade Herald Publisher Luther Jones asked county commissioners in a letter to come view the remains. "One concerning the (two) bridge deaths," as part of an inquiry.

The third animal in the county died of anthrax and farmers were being urged to vaccinate their cattle.

None of the three animals that died were in the Glades. They were located just west of Lake Park, just west of Loxahatchee and north of Broward County.

But cattlemen were urged by the County Health Department, the State Board of Health and the County Agricultural Agent to perform the vaccinations.

A total of 84 volunteers were being sought to man the Ground Observation Corps before Belle Glade could go on a 24-hour schedule of looking for air raids.

Three Canal Point brokerage firms united to form the Consolidated Packing Company.

The new concern was formed to pack all the winter vegetables handled by Brandon Brokerage Company, Fred T. Hickerson and Sam Chastain.

Each of the three operators would continue to sell his vegetables as in the past, using individual sales systems.

Two test blackouts were being planned for the Defense Plant, Pahokee and Belle Glade areas.

Defense Council officials asked that all persons cooperate in the drills in order to make the tests as realistic as possible.

United States Sugar Corporation distributed bonus checks totalling $150,000 to employees, considerably more than in previous years.

A plan to use water from Lake Okechobee to supply Fort Myers which had been brought up in 1916 was brought up again by then-Mayor Josiah H. Fitch.

The plan was said to be simple. Lake Okechobee was then used as a drainage basin and a source of supply for irrigation water.

It was planned to dig a navigable channel capable of carrying boats to a five-foot draft.

Publisher Howard Sharp was pushing for a new state road running around Lake Okechobee. Tourists could drive to the lake, Sharp said, then turn around and go back whence they came but couldn't drive around once they got here.

Fruit and vegetable farmers were being urged to show up at, "one of the most important hearings in the history of rate structures on shipping farm products."

Existing freight rates were inequitable, according to Thomas Grady of the Miami Rate and Traffic Board, "and are obstructing the readjustment of conditions necessary to the beginning of an end to the general depression and a start to a general recovery of business and commerce."

Man caught in burglary of arms shop

PAHOKEE — A Pahokee patrolman who stopped to investigate a suspicious vehicle early Monday morning, July 26, found himself witnessing a burglary.

Patrolman James Waggon said he observed a vehicle parked on the north side of William's Arms shop at 2891 East Main Street and stopped to check it out.

While checking out the vehicle, he said he saw a man in the shop removing guns from a case.

He apprehended the suspect about three minutes later as he was leaving the shop.

James Allen Johnson, 19, of 636 Rardin Avenue in Pahokee, was charged with armed burglary, according to Waggon.

He had supposedly discovered that Waggon was observing him and left the shop without the guns.

Waggon said he was assisted by Pahokee Police Sergeant Charles Collier, the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office and the Belle Glade Police Department's K-9 unit.

Man charged with 3 counts of forgery

BELLE GLADE — A 19-year-old Belle Glade man was arrested in an incident involving forged checks over the weekend.

Timothy L. Hicks, 19, was charged with three counts of forgery, one count of uttering a forged check and one count of grand theft after allegedly passing a forged check at a drug store, according to Detective Jack R. Fulemwidder.

According to an affidavit written by Fulemwidder, Hicks, using the pseudonym Pat Hill, allegedly cashed a check for $165 at Glades Drugs, 233

West Avenue A, Saturday, July 24 at about 11:35 a.m.

Dale Bledsoe, the store manager, became suspicious afterwards and called the woman on whose account the check had been written, Frances V. Miner.

Miner supposedly told Bledsoe that she did not write the check, and the police were called.

Patrolman F.D. Mayo obtained a description of the suspect and was told by Miner that Hicks frequented the lounge at the Holiday Inn.

Mayo located Hicks at the Holiday Inn at about noon and Bledsoe identified him as the person who allegedly cashed the check.

Eight blank checks from Miner's Florida National Bank account were found on Hicks, who said he found the checks on a trash pile in front of Miner's residence.

Miner's records revealed two other forged checks made out to Pat Hill, one for $87 dating back to June 24, and the other for $43 from June 28.

Hicks was also wanted for failure to appear in another, unrelated matter, according to Fulemwidder.

Delegation tours China

Jo Whitson, Chairperson of the Division of Nursing at the University of South Carolina at Aiken, recently returned from her second visit to the People's Republic of China. She served as delegation leader for the second United States nursing delegation to visit China.

Ms. Whitson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack A. Phillips of Falmes, S.C., formerly of Pahoee and is the granddaughter of Mrs. Blanche Armstrong and the late Dr. L.W. Armstrong. She participated in the first such delegation to China in the spring of 1981, and was asked by the director of People-to-People International, the sponsoring organization, to lead the second delegation this past spring. The People-to-People Citizen Ambassador Program was initiated by President Eisenhower to foster peace and understanding between the world's peoples.

As delegation leader, Ms. Whitson was responsible for building the delegation. "The final roster was most impressive," stated Ms. Whitson. "We had thirty-one nurses representing every area of nursing and most of the nurses were nationally certified in their area of experience. There were nine nursing authors and seven nursing researchers, deans of graduate and undergraduate colleges of nursing, and nursing service directors from large hospitals and medical centers." People-to-People stated that "this was the finest delegation ever sent, because of the hundreds of delegations each year, this statement is very significant. Assistant delegation leader was Professor Lucy M. Hartley of the University of South Carolina in Columbia. In China the delegation was hosted by both the China Association for Science and Technology, an arm of the Ministry of Health, and the Chinese Nurses Association.

The delegation's purpose was to exchange ideas and information with nursing's foreign counterparts. Six cities were visited during the three week study-tour, and the U.S. delegates delivered professional papers to the Chinese nurses in every city. They also participated in seminars with officials from the Chinese Ministry of Health, schools of nursing, hospitals, nursing homes, commune hospitals, and colleges of traditional Chinese medicine where acupuncture and herbal medicines are in use. The group witnessed surgery performed using acupuncture anesthesia and saw a wide variety of treatments with acupuncture.

In Beijing (Peking) the delegation was housed "where Nixon wanted to stay," in the famous Summer Palace. They were the first foreigners to be housed there since the time of Empress Dowager Cixi. Ms. Whitson and her assistant here housed in Chairman Mao Zedong's wife's suite. The Palace was still filled with the original jewel encrusted furnishings and precious art objects. The delegation was treated to a banquet at the internationally famous Peking Duck Restaurant where they had the finest Peking Duck in China. "Last year, we only glimpsed the restaurant as we sped by in our bus", Ms. Whitson stated with a laugh. The delegation was also honored with a banquet in the Great Hall of the People in Tiananmen Square, the Chinese White House.

Their personal chef at the Summer Palace was the chef for the Listening to Orioles Pavilion Restaurant, one of the most famous restaurants in all of China.

In Canton, the delegation was housed in the secret Pearl Island Guest House, where President Reagan would stay if he were in Canton. "There were armed guards with fixed bayonets on their rifles, the only vehicles allowed on the grounds were the Chairman's car, the Premier's car, red flag cars (high government officials), and our bus", Ms. Whitson stated. Again, Ms. Whitson and Ms. Hartley were given the diplomatic suite.

The delegation was a great success from our point of view as well as that of the Chinese. "I look forward to returning to China a third time," stated Ms. Whitson, "hopefully with my family in tow!"

Pahoee

Despite an often gloomy national economic picture during the first six months of 1982, the Bank of Pahoee, a locally owned and operated independent bank, has posted continued growth.

Commenting in a mid-year report, Julius T. Moon, president of the Bank of Pahoee, noted growth of more than three-quarters of a million dollars in deposits for the first six months of 1982.

"The Bank of Pahoee is fortunate to serve the agricultural area of Palm Beach County where economic growth continues despite a national trend that has not been as bright as hoped," said Mr. Moon.

"Our agriculture closed a successful growing season which lends to our bank's growth."

"The confidence of our depositors and the care by many to keep their money working at home is responsible for our substantial growth during this period.

"At a time when more and more financial institutions including smaller commercial banks are being swept up in purchases and mergers with the very large banks and holding companies, banks that are choosing to remain locally owned and operated are growing," Mr. Moon said.

"The ability locally to provide answers quickly and efficiently without considerable delay, sound financial investments and the ability to provide many services that are same or better than those provided by the super-banks are all factors that are responsible for our growth."

"More and more, our depositors are recognizing that their savings and investments are being turned back into the local community through business and personal loans that stimulate our local economy and help local businesses to prosper," the banker added.

"The strength and security of sound financial management are also factors," he recognizes," he said.

The Bank of Pahoee, Palm Beach County's oldest financial institution, serves western communities of Palm Beach County and has remained an independent locally owned and operated commercial bank since it was founded by a small group of Pahoee businessmen and growers in 1922. Eleven year old whiz kid attends camp

Brent Edwards does not look unusual. He is of average size, wears big glasses and smiles a lot. It is when you talk to him or watch his leisure time activities that he becomes different. He likes to ride his motorcycle along the bridge path, surrounding his home in Loxahatchee, Florida, but his real fun begins indoors. His idea of kid heaven is his Atari 800 computer complete with disc drive, costing new game programs or learning sub-routines in one of the many computer languages.

At age seven, he started pestering his parents, Vivian and Bob Edwards, for a computer, and they finally purchased one for him for Christmas, 1980. Since then he has convinced his parents to install a "Computer Corner" in their video store called Discotronics at 713 North Military Trail, West Palm Beach, and incidentally, send him for four weeks to the first computer camp sponsored by the Atari Company, at the exclusive Ashville School in Ashville, North Carolina.

Among sixty computer whiz kids, ranging from ages 10 to 18, it is hard to stand out, but somehow Brent managed to get himself interviewed by Nancy Forman of the NBC "Today" show and appear on national television during the July 22nd show, which featured the unusual Atari Summer Camp.

He was also interviewed and photed at the computer keyboard for a feature article in the Sunday Supplement of the Ashville Citizen on Sunday, July 11, 1982.

Brent vows that when he returns as a seventh grade student to the Glades Day School, Belle Glade, he intends to sell the school administration on initiating "computer education". Brent says "that could be easy, I have already sold six computers at my parents store!"

Have A Healthy Heart

Delicious Apple Stuffed Veal Rolls

Health and vitality are the wonderful things that come from good eating. That means a diet plentiful in whole, unrefined grains, raw or lightly steamed vegetables, fresh fruits, fish, poultry, the leanest meats, fat-free dairy products, vegetable oils and margarine. All of these foods are low in saturated fats and cholesterol, key factors in preventing coronary heart disease as recently reported by the Oslo Heart Disease Study.

"Good eating" can be as versatile and delicious as the finest gourmet cuisine. For example, foods can take on a buttery flavor with Fleischmann's® Margarine. Survival of panther is at critical stage

Lakeland: Although the panther is Florida's state animal, its survival is at a critical point.

With increased recognition the Game and Fresh Water Fish

Commission hopes that more people will show an interest in protecting and supporting research efforts designed to insure the survival of this endangered species.

"Proper public attitude and intensified biological research will be the key to survival for the panther," said Wildlife Resource Biologist, Greg Holder.

"Preservation of their natural habitat is a must."

Loss of the panthers unique habitat requirements is the major problem," Holder said. "Female panthers require 50 square miles and males, 100 square miles of total wilderness to survive. They just will not tolerate urbanization."

Breeding habits also account for their low numbers, said Holder. "Unlike other cats which may have six or more kittens and mate frequently, the panther may only have two or three kittens every two or three years."

When captured, the panther is fitted with radio-transmitting collars and have their ears tattooed," Holder said.

"We hope to answer some questions concerning range, breeding habits and habitat requirements."

Contrary to folklore there is no such thing as a black panther. Holder says. The panther is a tawny (tan) color, has a long tail with a crook at the tip and may weigh as much as 130 pounds.

The Florida Panther Record Clearinghouse has been set up at the Commission's Gainesville Wildlife

Research Center, to gather information and supporting evidence on reported panther sightings to aid in the effort to save one of Florida's most endangered species.

A CANONIE OFFSHORE pulls into second during the final game of the district tournament. More details are on page eight.

All lumber is not the same handymen and fix-uppers please note: All cypress lumber is not created equal.

You may have heard about how it is naturally rot resistant, and will defy the Florida elements indefinitely. Well, don't necessarily believe it, says the Florida Division of Forestry.

It is true that cypress lumber from the heart of the tree will last a long time. It contains natural preservatives that discourage insects, fungus and other invaders that cause decay in wood.

But chances that you will get heartwood when you buy cypress lumber today are slim indeed.

DISTRICT WINNERS -- Willard Mays of Okeechobee won the district games held in Belle Glade July 24 and 25. It was the first district softball games held in the Glades. Willard Mays and runner up Canonie Offshore of Hollywood won the opportunity to go to states in Tallahassee. Above, Bob Mace, manager of the team which hosted the games, gives the trophy to the Willard Mays coach.

Okeechobee team wins District title

BELLE GLADE -- Willard Mays out of Okeechobee is making a habit of winning softball tournaments in Belle Glade this year.

In late June, it won the Firecracker Tournament at Airport Park. Sunday, July 25, the team came out on top in the class B district tournament at Airport Park, earning the right to go to state finals in Tallahassee.

Willard Mays will be accompanied by the district runner-up, Canonie Offshore from Hollywood.

The district tournament, was the first ever held in the Glades. Mace Sod out-bid rivals for the tournament to host the two-day sporting event.

Thirteen teams were scheduled to appear, the winners and runners up from six sub-districts and the host team, Mace Sod. Two teams cancelled out though, bring the total number of participating teams to eleven.

Each of the winning teams, first place Willard Mays and second place Canonie Offshore, received $200 for travel expenses to the state tournament in August.

Willard Mays, which lost its first game in the double-elimination tournament, went on a seven game winning streak to win the district title with a 7-1 record.

Canonie Offshore, the second place team, defeated every opponent it faced until the final two games against Willard Mays. Willard Mays had to win two straight against Canonie Offshore to take the title.

Canonie, 4-0 going into the games against Willard Mays early Sunday afternoon, finished the tournament in second place with a 4-2 record.

First American out of Stuart, was third with a 3-2 record and Mace Sod, the only local team in the tournament, ended the tournament at fourth with a 2-2 record.

Mace Sod lost its first game to First American 5-6 in 10 innings. Then it won three straight, defeating R.J. Hoggie 14-13 in nine innings, Paul Bowell 16-6 and Key West 7-0.

Mace Sod was eliminated Sunday when Willard Mays defeated it 1-0.

R.J. Hoggie out of Pompano Beach finished the tournament in fifth place with a 3-2 record.

Stimmet Sports Shop of Stuart was sixth at 1-2 and Paul Bowell of West Palm Beach was seventh, also at 1-2.

Turf Pro of Fort Lauderdale, Key West Manatee of Key West, Jack's New York Pizza of Hollywood and Fort Lauderdale Cleaners of Fort Lauderdale finished with 0-2 records.

"The park was jam packed everyday," said Mike Underwood, the Belle Glade City Recreation Coordinator, who estimated that about 800 fans attended the weekend event. "There were no problems at all. Everything went smooth. It didn't rain and they were all close games."

Class B teams in the Glades currently play in the sub-district located on the coast. This year, Glades Sugar and Carter Chevrolet, represented the Glades at sub-districts. Mace Sod was given a bye because it was hosting the district tournament.

Next year a sub-district may be planted in the Glades area to serve South Bay, Pahokee and Immokalee.

The district commissioners must approve the creation of a Glades sub-district.

Okeelanta and Theo's battle to top spots

By JEFF BROWN

BELLE GLADE --

Okeelanta powered its way into the A Division mini-tournament championship and Theo's took the title in B Division behind the leadership of its play-coach John Polham.

Okeelanta ended the regular season at fourth place in the A Division behind first place Glades Sugar, second place Mace Sod and third place All Stars.

The Okeelanta Robitussins, the city league version of the Milwaukee Brewers, wreaked havoc in the A Division play-offs, overpowering first place Glades Sugar 10-3 in the first game.

They then squeaked by Mace Sod 8-6 to go to the finals.

Glades Sugar, a lower in the first round to Okeelanta, fought back to play in the finals, beating the All Stars 14-6 and edging Mace Sod 5-6.

The Glades Sugar-Mace Sod game was tied at four in the seventh inning when place Glades Sugar came to bat.

Two Mace Sod errors put two men on base and Duaine Doney belted the game winning run in with a three run homer. One more Glades Sugar run scored on two hits.

In the Mace half of the event, two more runs came in on a Craig Kleibler homer, but it wasn't enough to keep the Mace Sod season alive as Glades Sugar went to the finals with an 8-6 victory.

In the finals, Okeelanta beat Glades Sugar in the first game 9-4 and to end the season, but their homerun bats were ominously silent. The runs were brought around on singles, doubles and errors.

Wes Cadell batted in two runs, Jack McLain two and Doug Robinson one. Robinson led the league with 11 homeruns this season.

Theo's came back from third place in the final standings of the B Division regular season to win the mini-tournament.

Player-coach John Polham won all three of the mini tournament games for the team from the mound, playing excellent defense up the middle and walking just one batter in three games.

He combined his performance with clutch hitting to bring in four RBIs in the series.

After defeating Everglades Farm Equipment 5-3 in the first game, Theo's defeated Duda 6-4.

Duda downed E.F.E. 5-3 to earn the right to a rematch with Theo's in the finals.

In the last game, Theo's edged Duda 6-5 to take the title.

Players of the week

Player-coach, shortstop lead teams to titles

BELLE GLADE -- A player-coach and a shortstop used their defensive ability and help to help their teams to the mini-tournament titles in their respective divisions this week.

In the A Division, Okeelanta Shortstop John Polham, led off a couple innings with clutch hits as the team won three straight games to take the title.

He also managed a couple unassisted double plays.

John Polham, the player coach who pitched for Theo's, won all three of the mini-tournament games for Theo's. His starting defense up the middle kept many balls in the infield for outs instead of hits.

He gathered four RBIs in the three games and helped pull his team together for the B Division mini-tournament title.

On the consumer's side by Randy Reid, Consumer Services Coordinator, Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, Division of Consumer Services, Mayo Building, Tallahassee, FL 32301

QUESTION: Thank you for sending us the updated information on Florida's Landlord/Tenant Law, which was changed in April of this year. Can you help us get information on other consumer-related legislation which passed during the 1962 session?

ANSWER: Certainly. Few of the consumer oriented bills made it to the voting news this year, the Equal Rights Amendment and other DWI penalties were hotter news items.

But many consumer-related laws were passed and are worth noting. (Keep in mind the following synopsis is brief and incomplete. If you want additional information about any particular subject, contact your local state senator or representative for details.)

REAL ESTATE COMMISSION (83-1) — The former "Real Estate Commission", a separate agency at one time, has been re-established as a separate division of the Department of Professional Regulation. All the professions, except "real estate", will continue to be regulated by the division of Professions but the Division of Real Estate, while still a part of the Department, will again be relatively autonomous.

AUTO LICENSE (83-17) — Nonresident military personnel stationed in Florida will be exempt from annual license taxes on motor vehicles or mobile homes.

SHARED EMPLOYMENT (83-18) — Full-time career service jobs in State government can now be split or "shared" between more than one person. Each will participate pro rata in retirement and other benefits, (does not apply to OPS positions).

GAS PRICING (83-28) — Formerly the law allowed a gas price differential only between "self-service" and "attendant-controlled" sales. Now a price differential is legal as applied to "cash" and "credit" sales.

INTEREST RATE (83-42) — Where a contract does not specify a "rate of interest" to be paid the old statute fixed it at 6%. It is now fixed at 12%.

CHILD RESTRAINT (83-58) — Drivers (not only a parent or legal guardian) must use a crash-tested, federally approved "child restraint device" (car seat) for child passengers through three years of age. It must be a "separate carrier".

For four and five year olds a seat belt may be used. Penalty for violation: first offense, no penalty if the driver acquires a seat. Second offense: $15 fine.

LANDLORD/TENANT (82-66) — Substantial revision of the law affects security deposits, water beds, tenants' associations rights, mobile home terminations and evictions and cable TV services in mobile home parks.

STATE CARS (82-68) — State motor vehicles must use EPA certified energy-saving devices, additives and equipment if the Florida Department of General Services finds them cost-effective.

TOUR OPERATORS (82-83) — A "receptive tour operator" is one who provides prearranged tourist services through a foreign travel agency. They are now regulated by the Division of Hotels and Restaurants.

MIDWINTER WEDDING (82-123) — HRS now has broad regulatory power over the practice of midwifery.

BEDDING INSPECTION (82-123) — HRS no longer has regulatory authority over bedding material.

LANDLORD/TENANT (82-161) — There has been a substantial revision of the law in what was termed "Mini-Self Storage Landlord and Tenant Act" now called the "Self-Storage Facility Act".

MOTOR VEHICLES (82-157) — Modifies procedures for reporting abandoned vehicles or vehicles unclaimed in garages, parking lots, etc., and for notifying owners thereof. Failure to make a good faith effort to locate may preclude imposition of storage charges.

COMMUNITY GARDENING PROGRAM (83-178) — The Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services is charged with administration of the "Florida Community Gardening Program of 1962". The Commissioner may permit residents of a county to use available public vacant land for gardening (not-for-profit). Also applies to private land if owner agrees.

HOSPITALS (82-174) — Emergency department admissions are prohibited from requiring pre-treatment payment if patient provides evidence of insurance coverage.

LIMITED LIABILITY COMPANY ACT (82-171) — A very comprehensive law which provides a new form of doing business (compared to a "corporation") in Florida and repeals Part II of Chapter 617, a statute providing for "Scholarship Plans" (which were administered by the Department of Insurance).

Playing a man who can understand the thoughts of animals might sound like a strange role, but it's less outrageous for Ray Walston than it would be for some other actor (Walston will talk to the animals on the show's opening episode, "Licence to Kill"). Who's to question canine conversations from a man who portrayed the lovably acoustically spacey visitor on My Favorite Martian for nearly a decade?

These days, Walston is mostly found on TV's guest-star circuit, an episode of 7th that teamed him with ER's George Clooney. "I guess I don't read it," he says of guesting. "I've actually been good at it all along. Even during the Gunsmoke. I do several things like The Dandy

After those two shows, I was stamped as a musical-comedy performer and a song-and-dance man, while I was actually doing nothing more in Small Town. They did have talent, but I wasn't doing what I knew I was best at. I was trained to act, and I can't do anything else."

Not that Walton looks work. He's appeared in some

Horticultural seminar slated

BELLE GLADE - Many homeowners enjoy the pleasure of raising their own vegetables and now is the time to begin preparations for fall gardens. Gardening is an activity that everyone in the family can become involved in and it is a good way to help save on your food budget, too, as well as get some exercise and outdoor activity.

Growing vegetables does take some preparation of the planting area and careful maintenance after plants are started in order to insure a good harvest and many individuals lack experience in many gardening matters. To assist residents in all phases of vegetable gardening, including site selection, preparation, planting and general culture of vegetables. Gene Joyner, Urban Horticulturist, Palm Beach County Cooperative Extension Service, will be conducting a series of free slide-instruction seminars on home vegetable gardening. The first will be Friday, August 6, 8:30 to 11 a.m., Glades Extension Office, 2979 North 441, Belle Glade. In addition to the slide-instruction lectures there will be a number of very informative pamphlets given out to those attending. The seminar will be limited to vegetable gardening.

Everyone is welcome regardless of race, color, sex or national origin. For additional information call 683-1777, weekdays, 8:30 to 5:00.

Some turbidly like Celery of Terror also have a crack at his resume but none manage to keep him active in acting and this is not their concern. He enjoys his status as a noted producer more. He has influenced the late Lee J. Cobb. "When you look at the words 'lose' and 'kiss' lose," you realize that just like the above-the-title stars, character actors give the best they can.

Though he's done some dog-

Lou's happy to work right in own backyard

By Earl Thompson

There are those who want to see television production of the greatest dependency upon Hollywood's great old movie studios. One famous case is that of Glenn Ford, who sold his own television rights to the singer who first earned fame as a singer with a talent for selling records up to gold and platinum. Now, however, he has a special project: hosting a new series requires more than an hour's work from his talent manager in the basement office of his Los Angeles home.

Low who says silkily that he still likes the ladies but there's no one special at the moment has been a single parent to son Lou Jr. (17) and daughter Lou Anna (13) since his divorce 10 years ago. And you better believe he's coming back to the States to see his two. "For a while I'd call back even on concerts. I'd call home every day. I was on tour of course but even though I have two champion kids there's no substitute for being where you have eye-to-eye contact when subjects come up."

Rawls still does albums — the one due in October is the sound track of Garfield the Cat's first animated special. But Lou Annals there is no more.

Beverly Hillsbillies and Gilligan's Island making TV movie comebacks would Walston be interested in reprising Uncle Martin? "I'd never escape that character and that may become one of the great deals on TBS that realized," wouldn't that that rap I've just learned to live with it
